Help Fight Hepatitis C: Looking for Treatment Experiences

August 7, 2014 By Connie M. Welch

I am looking for Hep C patients who would be willing to share their Hep C treatment experience with the following new treatment regimens:

- Sovaldi, Interferon and Ribavirin
- Sovaldi and Olysio without Interferon and Ribavirin
- Clinical Trial Study

Do you remember what it was like when you where first diagnosed with Hep C? Trying to find treatment information? Looking for hope? Perhaps prior treatment did not work and you've done one of the new Hep C treatments.

Sharing our Hep C treatment experience is a huge help to others who are just being diagnosed, searching for treatment information and preparing for treatment.

Each time we share our experience with Hep C we have an opportunity to share hope, treatment help tips with others, and help someone else defeat the Hep C giant. There are no words to express how great a gift it is to allow God to use us in this way than to help others who are dealing with this disease.

If you or a loved one are dealing with Hep C, YOU are a Hep C giant killer and Hep C Warrior! Hep C patients do not have to suffer in silence with this disease. I hope you will pray and consider sharing your Hep C story. YOUR story matters! Your story may be the one that helps someone get tested, find the courage to do treatment, and point to the hope we have in Jesus Christ.

If you would be interested in sharing your treatment experience, please contact me, Connie Welch, Life Beyond Hepatitis C.com for more information. You can comment directly to this post or if you wish contact me privately at Connie@lifebeyondhepatitisc.com. Thank you for reaching out!
