Hep C Work Expanding

November 24, 2015 By Greg Jefferys

23rd November

I had a very pleasant weekend staying with friends up beside one of Tasmania's highland lakes. Spent two days boating, fishing and walking around. Took my Samsung Notepad along so that the emails did not get too out of hand but generally did not interface with the screen too much.

Whilst I do get a lot of emails I would like you to understand that I am happy to answer them and help where I can. I have decided that this is what I will do while it needs doing. If I can help then I will.

Recently I hired a friend who has a background in office work to help me with the paperwork side of things so that I can devote all my time just to responding to emails. This is working out very well and has taken a lot of weight off my shoulders because I am not good at the paperwork side of things.
