Day 92, 12 Week Lab Work Just In!

April 22, 2014 By Joseph Burke

Click Lab Image to view larger version.

Well, “proof is in the pudding” as they say. I went in for my 12 week HCV viral load check and sure enough, it’s undetected just like at week 4! I got the results today from my routine 12 week visit to my doctor, and I must also report that my immunity is at it’s highest since I’ve been keeping lab records. Proof that Sovaldi is working, proof that the virus is gone, my system is rebounding after years of fighting and dragon slaying, and now these bones can thrive! Everything on my labs came back amazing, AST & ALT were all normal. Officially going into week 13 of treatment, almost into week 14, it’s amazing to look back at these blog posts at the road I’ve traveled the past 12 weeks to get here to this point. How amazing the times we’re living in where the were HepC and Cure can now be uttered in the same sentence with assurance and confidence. Again, this is not my story, it’s God’s hand undermining this entire therapy. I’m just a vessel for His testimony and message, and I can’t wait to end therapy and share with the world my story of being cured!

© 2026 Smart + Strong All Rights Reserved.