December 17, 2014- Day 48

December 17, 2014 By Kyle Jacobs

Only eight more days of treatment on my eight-week treatment plan with Harvoni. I have a follow-up appointment with the doctor tomorrow to do one last round of tests prior to taking my last pill on December 25.

I honestly do not have much to report since my last post. I am still experiencing fatigue, an occasional headache, and some mild stomach and bowel issues. While I am fairly confident that the fatigue is related to the Harvoni, I cannot say for sure that the headaches and stomach issues are. I am definitely looking forward to the end of treatment next week and hope that all my labs will continue to indicate a successful treatment. I will update everyone once I get my labs back from my appointment tomorrow.
