On January 23, 2020, from 1:00pm to 2:00pm ET, the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine is hosting a webinar releasing a new report on the integration of opioid use disorder and infectious disease services.

The report explores:

- Barriers to coordinating care for patients with opioid abuse disorder and infectious diseases
- Programs that are already achieving integration and how new programs better integrate services.

Members of the expert committee will outline their findings, conclusions, recommendations and key messages including:

- Carlos del Rio (committee chair), Emory University School of Medicine
- Josiah D. Rich, Brown University Alpert Medical School
- Sandra A. Springer, Yale School of Medicine
