

Weighing in on the 2015 Liver Meeting

November 13, 2015 By Lucinda K. Porter RN

Today marks the opening of the 66th annual meeting of the American Association for the Study of Liver Diseases (AASLD), also known as the Liver Meeting. I am particularly looking forward to this year's event, which promises to be extremely relevant to hepatitis C patients. In addition to many presentations there will be two rallies calling attention to the obstacles that are interfering with access to hep C treatment. In preparation for the meeting, I thumbed through Hepatology's Abstract Supplement. Weighing more than four pounds, this nearly two-inch thick, 1378-page tome lists more than 2200 abstracts of posters and presentations that will appear at the meeting. There is some interesting research packed in these pages, and I will share as much as humanly possible.

So, stay-tuned for daily updates. I'll also post to Twitter @LucindaPorterRN and Facebook LucindaPorterRN. Twitter users may follow the meeting at #Liver15
